

Green Cleaning Fast Facts

We spend up to 90% of our time indoors, often in environments more polluted than the outdoors.

Over 37 millions people in the United States are thought to have heightened sensitivity to chemicals.

The average desk harbors over 10 million germs –

More than 80% of them are transmitted by contact.

Contagious disease may be reduced significantly through simple hand washing.

Respiratory illnesses alone can cost as much as $134 per employee –

Medical care for illnesses resulting from indoor air pollution costs more than $1 billion annually.

Lost productivity from those illnesses cost $4.7 to $5.4 billion.

85% of the per square foot office costs you pay goes toward employee expenses –

Imagine the cost of a 2% drop in productivity from an unhealthy indoor environment.

Healthy work environments have been shown to raise employee productivity by approximately 10%.

Recent studies at two different schools investigated the results of more thorough cleaning on student's performance –

Number of doctor visits declined by 34%.

Total illness declined by 24%.

Attendance increased by 4.5%.

Passing reading scores on the standardized tests increased 27%.

Green Cleaning advantages include –

Promoting a healthier work environment

Enhancing safety for janitorial workers

Improving employee retention

Reducing liability, legal costs and insurance

Enriching productivity and quality-of-work life

Helping organizations meet government purchasing mandates

Shrinking an organization's environmental footprint

Ask Brame About Green Cleaning
www.bramespecialty.com